There is no such thing as privacy anymore. In a world where we are used to sharing our information for school, work, and at play, our personal details are known to far more people than ever before. While there are pockets of society that complains and fights this trend, there is a vast majority of the world that continues to enjoy the convenience of social networking, while corporations toil behind the scenes to get to the data they crave.

1. What is the contradiction about users' attitudes toward Facebook?
2. Why does the author say Facebook has become an 'indelible part of the culture'?
3. Why is privacy 'no longer a contemporary concern'?
4. What are other examples of ambient networking?
5. What are the social norms that Facebook has upended?
6. Do you agree with the author? Why or why not?

GRAMMAR .....

Article: From Potter to Pagford

Pages 50 and 51

Nobody likes people who are all talk and no action. This week, we will be focusing on words that describe actions – verbs. And it always matters what verbs you choose to describe events, because someone who is strolling, walking, running, or sprinting will form different images and impressions in your mind.

Choose the correct verb.

1. When Mother (shaken/shook/had shook) out the kitchen rug, Mia coughed for an entire minute from the dust.
2. Graham could not remember how the cells should look like at all, and he wished he had (drew/drawn/had drawn) the samples that Mr Lim gave him.
3. When Tim (saw/seen/see) Sally wince at his bouquet of flowers, he knew had gotten the wrong gift.
4. Jose knew that an insect (had spent/spended/spents) the night in his favourite sneakers because they were full of webs.
5. Mrs Agnes (took/taken/had taken) several deep breaths when Jerry told her he had forgotten his textbook again.
6. Michael (leaved/leafed/left) his socks in the refrigerator again.
7. Don't you want to try (run/running/ran) for the class marathon?
8. It is time for us to (eaten/eat/ate) lunch before our meeting.
9. Don't (worry/worries/worried) about your paper, you will be fine.
10. Let's (walked/walks/walk) to the park together.
